

PITCH NIGHT WITH CHRISTOPHER

Our writers had the opportunity to pitch to a prominent executive at the world's largest talent agency. The 3-minute pitches took place in the room with other writers and Christopher gave feedback including his opinion on each of their projects, its market viability, and possible

Christopher Lockhart is the Story Editor at WME, where he helps to find projects for celebrated talent such as Denzel Washington, Christian Bale, Matt Damon and Rachel McAdams. He started his career at ICM running the Story Department and working alongside legendary talent agent Ed Limato as his script consultant, advising him on projects for his star-studded clientele such as Mel Gibson, Michelle Pfeiffer, Richard Gere, Robert Downey, Jr., and Liam Neeson. Chris's story expertise has been put to use on countless movies including the 2016 Sundance Film Festival sensation "The Birth of a Nation." He has lectured around the world on the business, pitching, and writing of screenplays and has published several articles. His screenwriting workshop, "The Inside Pitch," was filmed for Los Angeles television and earned him an Emmy award nomination. Chris graduated from NYU's Tisch School of the Arts with an MFA in dramatic writing and received the Public Service Prize for his commitment to public education. He is currently an adjunct professor at National University's Professional Screenwriting Program. As a filmmaker, he co-produced the cult horror film "The Collector" and its sequel "The Collection." He wrote and produced the documentary "Most Valuable Players," which won worldwide accolades and was acquired by Oprah Winfrey, airing on OWN. Chris is a member of the Television Academy, the WGA, and the PGA. Throughout a 30-year career, Chris has read over 50,000 screenplays. He lives in Beverly Hills, CA and has a seven-year-old son.

Join Chris on Facebook <https://www.facebook.com/groups/theinsidepitch/> All of episodes of his podcast are still available on iTunes and online here: <http://www.blogtalkradio.com/theinsidepitch>